

Hannah Sease Artist Statement

Hannah Sease is an illustrator that finds herself split comfortably between California and Wyoming. She specializes in traditional media, favoring watercolor, and pen and ink in particular. Much of her time is spent seeking coziness in all its many forms, from campfires, to mulled wine, to an oversized sweater, a quality that has also found its way into her art through themes of folklore and rural aesthetics. When she's not being a homebody she enjoys being outdoors collecting, biking, and camping. She spent many of her younger years living around the world with her family which has manifested into a fascination for what we define as a home and finding ways to feel at home anywhere.

BA: University of Wyoming: Art

MFA: California State University, Fullerton: Illustration (In progress)