

Maggie Tseng Artist Statement

I'm Maggie Tseng. I'm a freelance illustrator and painter based in Los Angeles, CA. I believe the power of myths, stories we tell each other can permeate our psyche and make a difference. I need to believe that it does which is why I paint the things I paint. My work spans a wide range of things. These days I find that most of my work represents my own faith in survival and redemption whether that deals with my own issues or the world at large. This has manifested into a lot of fantasy work that I approach as metaphors for trauma, wonder, femininity, etc. with an element of mystery that allows you to feel as if the character is reaching out / yearning for something that I would like to think of as hope.
